

Delivery & Assessment

Classroom delivery

Learners will experience an interactive activity based on series of workshops which will help explore the learning. Discussions and exercises will address key issues of each topic and draw on practical expertise.

Individual coaching/ mentoring

Sometimes the best option is to work with your trainer one on one where attendance in a workshop environment isn't possible or a specific coaching benefit is clear. The learning strategy will be customised to suit each individual and will be agreed prior to commencement.

Distance/ Online learning

Not being able to learn because of distance or ability to be where your trainer should not be a problem. Distance learning is available to support you. Candidates will receive study materials either online or hard copies which include assessment tasks that must be completed and sent back to the facilitator. Correspondence with the facilitator may be via phone discussions and email.

Workplace based delivery

Assessment is focused on practical work based outcomes in learners' workplace context, a combination of knowledge skill and measured against workplace tasks, a workplace project or simulated activities.

Recognition of prior learning (RPL)

Recognition of prior learning (RPL) is for experienced candidates who can produce evidence that leads to a qualification without the need to study due to their current expertise on the subject. The comprehensive RPL package will take candidates through the steps they need to follow and explain what evidence they are required to produce to achieve the qualification.
